Among the plethora of studies on modern Arabic literature, this book is the first major treatment of what has generally been a taboo subject. The scope covers the entire history of modern Arabic literature, poetry, the novel, and the short story from the late nineteenth century to the end of the 1980s.

The representations of gender and sexuality in modern Arabic novel in general and the feminist novel in particular then move on to explore the secondary literature most relevant to my topic in the following section. I define the key terms I am using employed in this dissertation mainly gender sexuality subversion and resignification. Finally, I provide a brief chapter summary.

In segregated conservative societies with a repressive attitude to women, writings on the theme of love and sexuality are of particular interest among the plethora of studies on modern Arabic literature. This book is the first major treatment of what has generally been a taboo subject. The scope covers the entire history of modern Arabic literature, poetry, the novel, and the short story from the late nineteenth century to the end of the 1980s.
